Accessing a Session

When it is time for you to join a session, click the name of the session or the 'Join session' button to get to the session page.

On the session page, you can view a description of the session, speaker details, and any session documents that were shared. If you are viewing the sessions before it begins, you can add that session to your personal calendar.

If the session is live, you can see all the questions being asked during that session.

When you are ready to join, select the 'Join Session' button, which will open the video player for you.

Asking a Question

If you are in a session that is accepting Q&A, select the 'Ask a question' button to open a text box. You can ask the question anonymously or include your name.

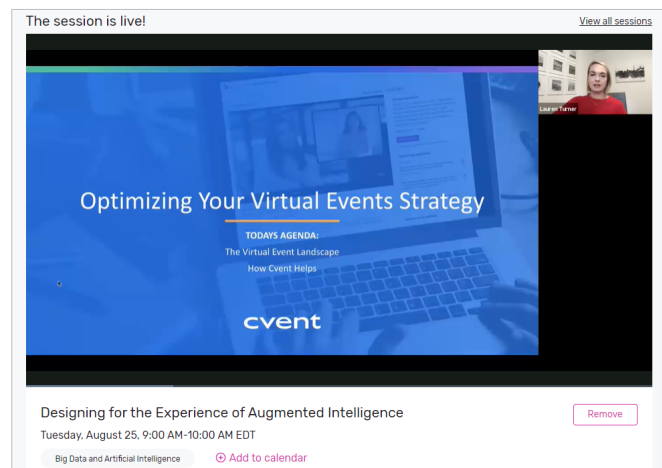

You also have the option to upvote other attendees' questions.

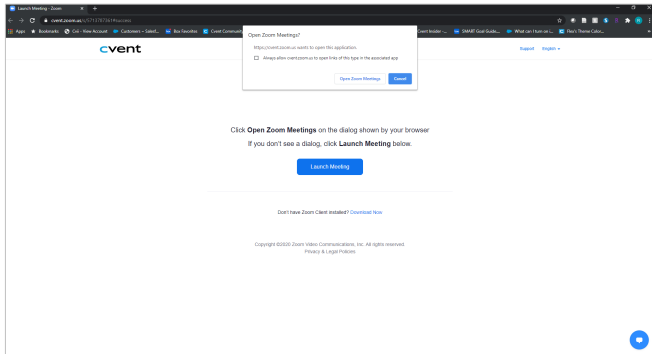

Joining a Session

Select the 'Join Now' button when you are ready to access the content. If the session is a livestream session, then a video will pop open and you will be able to view the content.

If you are viewing the session during the time it is aired, you can pause the content, but it will not hold your place. If you are watching a recording, you can pause and play the video like usual.

3

If the session is collaborative, the 'Join Now' button will prompt a Zoom window to open.

Select 'Open Zoom Meeting' or join via your browser. Reference the password field on the session page if prompted. This will open a Zoom meeting, where the host of the meeting will determine if you can unmute or turn your camera on.
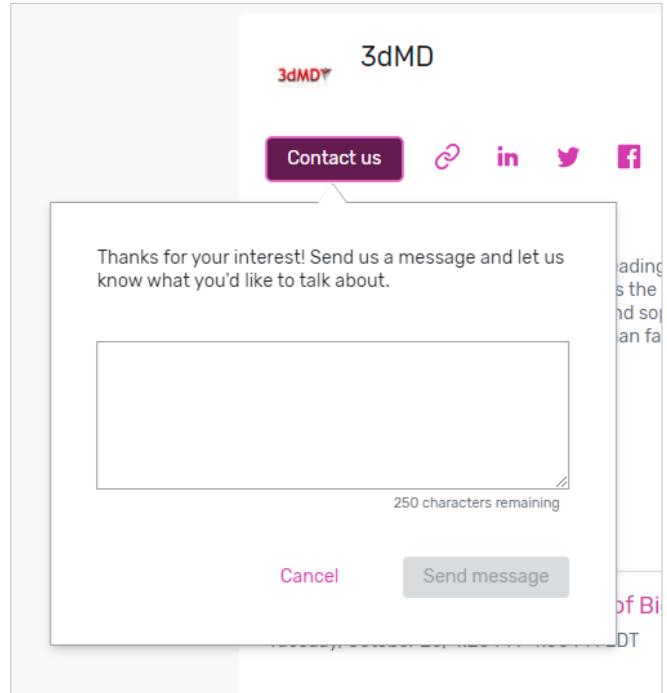

Accessing a Researcher's Page

By clicking an researcher's name on the Researchers Page, you will have access to their virtual booth. This page has information about the exhibitor, ways to connect with them via social media, and ability to join their virtual meeting room if they have one. You can also see and files or links the exhibitor has included.

If attendee has a virtual meeting room, you can click 'Join Virtual Meeting' and a Zoom meeting will open.

If you would like more information about the researcher, you can select 'Contact us' to send them a message.
